

Tombala (Bingo)

People of all ages play this game with number cards which have three rows, small cartoons and a small bag including numbers from 1 to 90. One person selects a number (without seeing) from the small bag and tells the others which number it is. Others cover on that number with small cartoons. When they cover all numbers in one row, they announce as the first one completing. Then, when someone covers the numbers in two rows of their cards, they announce again. Finally, after covering all numbers in their cards, they announced and win the game, tombala. All the people completing one row firstly, two rows, and all rows gain some money. Of course, the one who wins the game gains more money.